

THE SITUATION IN CUBA.

A LARGE CONTRACT FOR SPAIN.

From the Syracuse Post.
The truth is that Spain has a very large contract in attempting to put down the Cuban rebellion. It will take a long time to finish it, for the Cubans are fighting for their own soil. They are familiar with the mountain fastnesses and they are inspired by the desperate resolution of patriots fighting for liberty.

THE FIRST MISSION STILL REMEMBERED.

From The Baltimore American.

The greatest of Spain's paper generals—greater even than the immortal Wallace, the hero of Tel El Kebir—General Martinez Campos, is amiable, and like all amiable persons, disposed to promise more than he can perform. He did this because he was a good man, and he believed the Cubans autonomy in their local affairs, and he was doubtless sincere; but his Government practically repudiated the engagement, and this will, in all probability, be fatal to his second mission.

PROMISES WILL NOT WORK THIS TIME.

From The Wilmington News.

It is not expected that the rebels will sacrifice their leaders even to gain the doubtful advantage of Campos's promises to carry out all of the political and economical reforms demanded. There were promises last year of one soldier every two years ago; but when he returns to Spain the Government would not help him to keep his word. The present trouble is the result of the failure to agree to the promises made the other time.

THE SITUATION SERIOUS.

From The New-Orleans Picayune.
Viewed at its best, the situation in Cuba is decidedly serious. Although the rebels have under arms a consolidated force in the field, they have under arms a large number of detached bands, which are calculated to give the Government no end of trouble.
